Measuring Health and Happiness

The small country of Bhutan in the Himalayan mountains is over one thousand years old. In the past it was a poor country and not many people visited it. 1) _____ Medicine and health is improving and its economy is growing. King Jigme Singye Wangchuck, the king of Bhutan until 2006, talked about his country's 'Gross National Happiness'. In other words, he thought happiness is the way to measure the country's development.

But how do you measure happiness? 2) _____ It's also easy to measure how many people feel ill or unhealthy in a country. For example, one survey says Iceland is the 'healthiest country in the world' because men and women live a long time there, the air is very clean and there are more doctors available per person than anywhere else in the world.

However, there was another survey of the happiest countries in the world and Iceland was not near the top. The questions on this survey included: How much do you earn? How healthy are you? How safe do you feel? 3) _____ So what makes it the happiest of all these countries? Does happiness equal money and good health? Not according to the artist Erik Krikortz. He feels that there are other ways of measuring happiness. Krikortz has a website and visitors click on different happy or sad faces to comment on how well they sleep, their family and friends, their level of stress, their inspiration and their physical activity. When you finish, his website adds the results for each area. 4) _____ The website provides you an innovative way of calculation of your happiness.

In his home city of Stockholm, Krikortz also shows the results of his survey as different coloured lights on the side of a large building in the city. For example, red means the people of Stockholm are very happy, green is OK and purple means many people are sad. 'A lot of people look at the building every day and see how "we" are,' Krikortz says. 5) _____ For example, if the lights are red, you, as a tourist, know that the locals are feeling happy!

I. The coloured lights are also useful if you feel like visiting the city.

II. Finally, it gives you a final result for your happiness.

III. Perhaps health is the best way because a famous doctor once said, 'Happy people generally don't get sick.'

IV. There are many different ways to make yourself feel happy.

V. But nowadays, it is becoming more and more popular with tourists.

VI. After visiting 155 different countries, the researchers decided that Denmark feels happier than other countries.

Unusual Places to Stay

PRISON HOTELS

Built in 1905, Karosta naval jail in Latvia was originally home to criminal Russian sailors. In the 1970s it housed political prisoners. According to their website this is 'an opportunity to stay overnight on real prisoners' benches and mattresses'. The website of the hotel describes Karosta as 'unfriendly, unheated and uncomfortable'. This is more a reality jail experience than a hotel. 'Reception' is a dark corridor where a former prison guard explains the rules to you (no luggage except a toothbrush etc.) and then fires his gun in the air to show you he is serious. Sound unpleasant? It is. Mind you, for $12 per night, what do you expect?

PERIOD HOTELS

Would you like to experience life in America's Wild West 150 years ago? Virginia City in Montana, a former gold-rush town, was a ghost town until it began to be restored in the 1950s for tourism. Nearby is the Nevada City Hotel and cabins where you can wear your Stetson hat and enjoy life as a cowboy. The large and cosy rooms have period Victorian furniture and downstairs the saloon has a true Wild West feel. If you book in the week, you might be disappointed because the city only comes to life at weekends, when actors walk around in period costumes, such as sheriffs and cowboys, like in a movie setting.

CAVE HOTELS

If you had more primitive accommodation in mind, why not try the caves of Sassi di Matera on the toe of Italy, which have been lived on since the Bronze Age? In recent history they are best known as the poor homes of the peasants who lived there with their animals until as late as 1952. Now, however, they have been remade to provide hospitality in a historical setting. Although visitors must do without television or fridges, the rooms are comfortably furnished with antique furniture. The owners wanted the caves to still feel as authentic as possible, so they have built the furniture into the walls of the caves. Prices start at $300 per night.

ART HOTELS

As its advertising promises, Propeller Island City Lodge in Berlin manages to combine art gallery and hotel experiences. Made in a former apartment block at the beginning of the 21st century, the hotel is a collection of individually designed rooms – the upside-down room, the all-orange room, the mirror-filled room. In some art hotels, you could forget the art and simply enjoy the comfort of your surroundings. That's not true for Propeller Island. Although some have balconies, the rooms can be small and claustrophobic, and often you have to share a bathroom with other guests, which can be disturbing.

16. In Prison Hotels, you _____.
- a) can meet political prisoners
  - b) can use a real gun
  - c) pay a little amount of money
  - d) experience enjoyment

17. In which hotel can you experience a film-like atmosphere?
- a) Art Hotels
  - b) Cave Hotels
  - c) Prison Hotels
  - d) Period Hotels

18. Which two hotels can be uncomfortable?
- a) Prison Hotels and Art Hotels
  - b) Art Hotels and Cave Hotels
  - c) Period Hotels and Cave Hotels
  - d) Prison Hotels and Period Hotels

19. Which hotel does NOT date back to a hundred or more years ago?
- a) Prison Hotels
  - b) Art Hotels
  - c) Cave Hotels
  - d) Period Hotels

20. Which hotel was home to poor local people before it became a hotel?
- a) Prison Hotels
  - b) Art Hotels
  - c) Period Hotels
  - d) Cave Hotels

READ THE TEXT AND CHOOSE THE BEST ALTERNATIVE THAT ANSWERS EACH QUESTION. (QUESTIONS 21-25)

New Technology
Some of these ideas may sound like science fiction – in fact, they already exist and could be part our everyday lives soon.
Human ‘washing machine’
Why have a shower and wash your clothes separately? Wouldn’t you prefer to step into a device that could instantly clean you and your clothes? In Japan, they’ve already got a special machine that does exactly that. At present, it’s used in hospitals for patients who can’t easily move. It’s expensive - $50,000 – but the price will drop as scientists develop better models. In the future every home could have one, and the ordinary shower might become a thing of the past.
Personal Robots
Robot technology is getting better all the time. Two companies plan to start selling a new personal robot later this year. The robot, called Nuvo, doesn’t have any wires or handles and it’s not made of metal – it’s a human-like robot that uses totally new materials. It’s 35 cm tall and can walk like humans, understand voice commands and send video from its ‘eyes’ to a videophone. It costs $4,600, so it’s not cheap, but experts think sales – at present around $4 billion – will grow to $14 billion by next year.
Clothes for health
The idea of combining clothes with computer chips isn’t new. Computer chips in clothes can already measure body temperature and heart rate to detect if your body is working too hard – some professional athletes use these smart clothes during training. Now scientists are working on chips that can analyse the chemicals in your sweat. The device could detect high stress level or if people with diabetes have too much sugar in their blood. In the future, the chips could send the user a text message to tell them they need to relax, eat some food or go to a doctor.
Keeping cool
British inventor James Dyson has developed an amazing new table fan for cooling air. It doesn’t have blades, so there is no risk of children hurting themselves. It uses 98% less energy than air conditioning, so it’s good for the environment, too. The big disadvantage is that it costs around $300, so it’s about ten times more expensive than a traditional fan.

21. The text is mainly about devices _____.
a) which are already available in most countries
b) that are and will be accessible
c) that might be real some day
d) which can be found in an ordinary house
22. Nuvo _____.
a) uses typical materials such as metal
b) is the same size as the average human
c) can give voice commands
d) moves like a human
23. Which of the following do experts believe will happen in the future?
a) Robots will become much more expensive over the next year.
b) Companies will never sell expensive robots again.
c) Many more people will buy personal robots by next year.
d) Sales of robots will grow very slowly in the near future.
24. Dyson’s fan _____.
a) isn’t very environmentally friendly
b) is more energy-saving than air conditioning
c) shouldn’t be used if you have young children
d) has a type of blade unlike traditional fans’
25. Which of the following is FALSE according to the text?
a) New computer chips in clothes can be used for many purposes.
b) Traditional fans are much cheaper than Dyson’s fan.
c) For now, the machine to clean people is especially for ill people.
d) Nuvo can get and send videos to computers.

THE ROUGH GUIDE TO GREECE

1 Go to any bookshop nowadays and you'll see the shelves full of travel guides. But it wasn't always like that. Thirty years ago, travel guides tended to be full of photos of ruins and museums but with little practical information. Any information that was given was usually aimed at rich tourists: five star hotels, the best restaurants and similar details of little use to the average backpacker.

2 One traveler who noticed this problem was Mark Ellingham. He had just finished university and was travelling round Greece. He had taken some guide books with him but he couldn't find what he was looking for. Some were full of historical details and looked like museum brochures. Others told him how he could live cheaply. None of them, though, gave any information on life in Greece – its politics, culture or simply how its people lived. This was what Mark wanted to know about – but there is a limit to how many books you can carry while travelling.

3 Instead of complaining, Mark decided to write his own book. He wanted it to include details of sights to visit, places to stay (from cheapest to the most expensive), nightlife, restaurants, transport and what it was like to live in Greece at that time. In short, everything worth knowing.

4 He had no job at the time and the economic situation in Britain in 1982 meant that it was difficult, even for a graduate, to find something. Likewise, the publishing industry was not doing good at the time. Therefore, it was a risk but Mark's book became an immediate success. This encouraged him to write more. Working with three friends, he provided similar information about other destinations. Now, over 25 years later, there are more than 100 Rough Guides and over 100 authors write for the company which has offices in London and New York. Mark and his friends are still involved in the company. Today, however, they would be forgiven for taking a rest from the actual writing work and having a holiday, taking along one of their guide books with them, of course.

26. The main reason for Mark's writing The Rough Guide to Greece is _____.
- a) his love of Greek academic studies at university
  - b) the economic situation in Britain in 1982
  - c) his disappointment with current guide books
  - d) people's interest in history and politics
27. Which of the following is FALSE?
- a) Mark is still working for Rough Guides.
  - b) Mark gave up his job to become a writer.
  - c) Mark graduated from university.
  - d) Mark has written more than one book.
28. In paragraph 4, the word This refers to _____.
- a) the publishing industry
  - b) the economic situation in Britain in 1982
  - c) the risk of failure
  - d) the immediate success
29. In paragraph 4, the word destinations means _____.
- a) places
  - b) guides
  - c) books
  - d) vacations
30. Which of the following is TRUE?
- a) The old guides were very effective for ordinary travelers.
  - b) Rough Guides company has grown a lot over a quarter century.
  - c) Writing a travel guide had been Mark's dream since he was young.
  - d) The best travel guides encourage him to write his own book.
